

Hector Safety Button

The Hector Safety Button was originally created by a New Zealand E-safety organisation called Netsafe who allowed CEOP to use their resources under licence. As the button was designed for earlier versions of Windows (Vista / XP) CEOP no longer offer this resource due to possible installation problems.

I've installed Hector on Windows 7 computers without any issues but I strongly advise you are happy installing it and know how to un-install programs in the event it causes a problem.

Should you decide to go ahead you can download it from:
